MODEL KILLER FEARED MASKED

Gedeon Tells Police of Suspect's Ability in Making False Faces

DRAGNET PROVES FUTILE

Calls to Bowery Bronx and Greenwich Village Yield No Results

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK April 6—The fantastic possibility that Robert Irwin sculptor suspect in the Easter morning triple murders was wandering about New York streets disguised in a mask of his own making spurred police combing every section of the city today

After 24 hours of searching a sifting hundreds of anonymous telephone calls placing the former divinity student in the Bowery the Bronx Greenwich Village and a dozen other sections detectives in squad cars still had not caught up with him

There is nothing new in the case announced Chief Inspector John A Lyons at headquarters The situation is unchanged

Gedeon Suggests Mask

Joseph Gedeon upholsterer father of the 20-year-old artist model Ronnie strangled with her mother and a roomer Frank Byrnes in their apartment Easter Sunday morning suggested to detectives that Irwin might be wearing a mask of his own making

He will try to disguise himself with a mask of some kind Gedeon himself questioned almost 48 hours as a suspect last week told Lt Martin Owens in charge of detectives

He is very good at making masks Gedeon said He can make them so perfectly he could fool anyone

In the murder flat along with other clues police have announced point directly to Irwin as the murderer was found a mask of the face of Ronnie the popular model perfect in its likeness

Sculptured Busts

Irwin while a mental patient for three years at the Rockland county hospital sculptured busts of President Roosevelt Max Schmeling Marlene Dietrich Prof Einstein and other personages making them from photographs

Inspector Lyons cleared up one important point concerning the five year diary of Ronnie Gedeon found in the murder apartment

Nowhere in the diary did she mention Irwin he said Apparently he had been dismissed from her mind when he left the room he occupied for some time in the Gedeon home

He did not identify the many references to Bob and Bobby in the model's diary Ronnie married Robert Flower when she was only 16 but the marriage was annulled after a short time

Weapon Reported Found

Reports that police had found the murder weapon an ice pick with a heavy taped handle in the apartment and had traced the instrument directly to Irwin could not be confirmed though officers said unofficially that this was so

While police watched the psychopathic ward at Bellevue here and the Rockland hospital where doctors expected Irwin would appear

AVIATOR SIGHTS WRECKAGE OF MISSING PLANE

Flier Seeking Lost Airliner Spots Craft in Mountainous Wilds of Arizona

GROUND PARTY ON WAY

Region Virtually Inaccessible Says Pilot Circling Over Wreckage

By The Associated Press

ALBUQUERQUE N M April 6 —Major A D Smith division superintendent of the Transcontinental and Western air lines in a radio message to the airport here at 10 a m today said the wreckage of an airplane was sighted northeast of Mount Baldy in eastern Arizona

The veteran pilot flying a tri motor transport said the wreckage was in a virtually inaccessible region He told airport operatives here his ship was circling the spot until Major Victor Bertrandias could arrive from Winslow with a ground party

Smith and Bertrandias export manager of Douglas Aircraft Co were leading a search for a Douglas airliner with eight persons aboard which disappeared Saturday while being ferried to New York for shipment to Europe

Near Indian Reservation

Baldy is about 30 miles west and slightly north of Alpine where numerous reports of sighting the plane came in yesterday and last night It is on the border of the Fort Apache Indian reservation

The peak 11,000 feet high is more than 60 miles off the course the huge Douglas skyliner was taking across continent

Major Smith said he was certain it was the twin motored ship Pilot Clen Mosier flew out of Burbank Calif Saturday morning

The ground party organized at Winslow included Major Bert Randias in charge Sheriff Lafe Hatch of Navajo county Capt Morgan of the Los Angeles Calif county sheriff's office and a department of commerce inspector

Although searchers had not abandoned all hope Major Bertrandias shook his head after a flight over the Mt Baldy region

It's the roughest country I've ever seen he said 'Only by a miracle could a ship have survived a landing there

Reports were also checked that a strange plane had been seen apparently in trouble and circling off its course over the wild mountain country between Escudillo and Baldy peaks in Arizona 60 miles southwest of Gallup N M All reports came from an area of less than 40 miles radius

Major Bertrandias went to Springerville 130 miles southeast last night to question two boys who had reported seeing a distressed plane in the Mt Baldy region

The veteran airman with a party of Douglas officials and a department of commerce representative flew here yesterday from Burbank Calif in a 21 passenger sistership of the missing plane

KENTON POLICEMAN KILLED IN MISHAP

J H Jenkins Dies from Injuries Suffered When Hit by Taxi This Morning

Special to The Star

KENTON O April 6—Jacob H Jenkins 64 merchant policeman in Kenton for 21 years died at 1 20 a m today in McKitrick hospital of injuries suffered when he was struck by a taxicab a short time before Sheriff Lloyd Norman exonerated the driver of the cab Clyde Pelz 20 after hearing his explanation and also the statements of the cab passenger Paul T Mahon Kenton attorney who had returned from Chicago and hired the cab to take him to his home According to Mr Mahon there was a high rain and Mr Jenkins stepped across an intersection with his head down in his coat collar The driver told Sheriff Norman that the traffic signal had changed to green and that he did not see the man until he was directly in front of the cab

City Looks Back Over 20 Years To U.S. Entry in War

Excitement Ran High April 6, 1917, as Marion Pledged Support to President in Declaration

As the twentieth anniversary of United States entrance into the World war arrived today Marion residents looked back across a score of years to recall the display of patriotism that swept the city as it joined the rest of the nation in expressions of loyalty and devotion to country

Although 20 years ago today marked the nation's formal entrance into a state of war with Germany and the central powers that event had been preceded by developments in which Marion and other cities had begun definite preparations for this country's participation in the great conflict

Marion thus made an early start in its preparedness activities but its first young men in service were not to leave until later week

Although a number of individuals had left Marion for war service prior to that time July 15 marked the date of the departure of the city's first organized war unit—Co D which had just returned from duty on the Mexican border about a month before war was declared

Probably the biggest single event in the way of a public demonstration in Marion in connection with the war was a mass meeting of citizens held on Wednesday April 4 1917 two days before war was declared by congress on Friday

At this meeting called by Mayor A T Sautter as a means for the community to express its loyalty and patriotism a resolution addressed to President Wilson was adopted by unanimous vote and cheers after several persons had given talks The demonstration was held at the west steps of the courthouse

Copy of Resolution

The resolution prepared by a committee composed of C L Justice John H Bartram and Fred W Warner follows

Patriotism in every nation of every clime has long been symbolized by its flag

And reverently we cherish ours wrapping within its folds a glorious past shield as it flutters in the breeze a nation's present liberties adding from time to time the fresh luster of new stars blazing brightly in its firmament—brilliant with promise of constantly greater achievement—there is on this fair earth no more precious and thrilling sight—none that will so quickly cause the blood to leap in the veins make the welkin ring with ours cheers or bring the tears of joy to our eyes than that of the Stars and Stripes—our country's flag

There is no other such flag as ours

It is our heritage from those gave and those who preserved to us this land of the free

'It is our richest treasure—to be by us in turn handed down to our children and our children's children

"And this, our flag, shall not be insulted With it at the masthead, our ships must plow the highways of the sea free and untrammelled, and without asking the bidding of any nation. And woe to such as dare to question or invade this right!

"In this, our country's crisis, we, the citizens of Marion, renew our vows of fealty and loyalty to our flag and pledge ourselves, our lives and our sacred honor to the support of this free government.

"Heartily we endorse the wise and patriotic course of our beloved President, Woodrow Wilson, who has sought all honorable means to maintain peace, until by the [illegible] repeated, unprovoked [illegible] less destruction [illegible] American [illegible] and utter defiance of all the laws of God and man not in the part of its people but by the demoniac war lords of Germany he has been compelled to declare that a state of war exists

And so here and now we pledge our nation and our nation's chief

Modern Troops Parade 20 Years After World War

Far Surpasses Force Available When Congress Launched Conflict in 1917

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON April 6 A new kind of army keyed to the latest quick moving hard hitting methods of war paraded today in memory of America's entry into the world conflict 20 years ago

Military men said that in striking power and potential numbers this new fighting organization far surpasses the force available when congress declared war on Germany on April 6 1917

The confident tramp of troops and rumble of motorized forts in an army day parade here contrasted however with the memories of a small group which will drink a toast tonight to a battle for peace which they lost

There will be no speeches at the private dinner of a handful of aging men and a white-haired woman the senators and representatives who voted against the war Of the 56 dissenters 30 have died

Their voices did not carry far in the tumultuous debate of two dec

ALMENDINGER SEES RELIEF AS PERMANENT

Likely Always To Be Present in Some Form, Representative Writes Commissioners

Conviction that 'relief will always be with us in some measure was expressed in a letter received today by the board of county commissioners from Samuel Almendinger Marion county representative in the Ohio assembly The letter came in answer to the commissioners request that Almendinger lend his support to a solution of the relief problem

"I can assure you that I am ready to do anything within reason to solve this problem," Mr. Almendinger wrote. "Many solutions are being offered which for the most part are only temporary To my mind relief in some degree will always be with us and, therefore, some permanent legislation should be enacted to take care of it. The crux of the whole situation is to find money to carry on, this means that some form of tax must be enacted to provide funds. Several sources are available and have been discussed quite extensively on the floor of the house but to date without [illegible]

Workers Turn in $1 740 as Scout Campaign Gets Under Way

NEXT CHECK WEDNESDAY

Informal Talks Urge Workers Ahead To Reach $9 500 Goal by Friday

Goal	$9 500 00
Raised	1 740 50
To Raise	$7 859 50

A total of $1 740 50 raised to date was reported by Boy and Girl Scout drive workers at a dinner meeting last night at the First Presbyterian church

Looking ahead to a budget of $9 500 for the two organizations it was emphasized that considerable work on the part of canvassers and division heads is necessary which will not reach fruition until the last report is made Friday night

G A Holland chairman of the industrial division said that 11 Marion industries have working teams which will not report until Friday and other division heads made similar reports

A majority of team captains reported their workers were busy contacting prospects and would make reports at the next report meeting a luncheon Wednesday at 11 45 a m at the church Dr Edward F Waring of Epworth M E church will deliver a brief talk

Clyde Faust chairman of the national firms division reported $120 and Harold J Gilgsh of the advance gifts division reported $1 172

Troop reports totaled as follows Troop A in charge of E G Seifert $160 Troop B in charge of George Alber $198 60 Troop C in charge of Mrs Fred Allen $75

Wilbur Symes general chairman of the drive covered the general progress of the campaign in an informal talk preceding the troop and division reports It is important that we pursue the campaign with energy he told the workers

Mr Holland gave an impromptu talk following the reports and especially expressed appreciation for the canvassing which the women workers have done and will do during the week

Three appeals which Boy and Girl Scout campaigners can make convincingly in their soliciting Mr Holland said are to the assurance that the person contacted is making an investment in the future of the city that by supporting scouting he is building the usefulness of boys and girls in the community and that in supporting a youth movement there is a spirit of civic pride

George G Kleinmaier speaking informally said he had found most prospects very receptive to the scout movement and its support

CHRYSLER ACCORD EXPECTED SHORTLY

Settlement Today Would Send 80,000 Workers Back to Their Jobs Next Week

By The Associated Press

LANSING Mich April 6 — A prediction that the Chrysler automotive strike might be settled today raised hopes that 80 000 workers would be back at their jobs in Michigan motorcar and parts factories next week

The peace conference reconvened today

An informed source said the striking United Automobile Workers of America had submitted this proposal U A W. A. recognition for its members; Chrysler not to sponsor or support any other union and to do nothing "detrimental" to the U A. W A., any dispute on this to be submitted to Chrysler and Lewis for settlement; both union and corporation pledge not to coerce any company employee

When the conference between representatives of the corporation and the United Automobile Workers of America in Gov. Frank Murphy's office adjourned last night the governor said "There is no comment I can make."

As that session convened there were reports that it would be only "a matter of hours" before an agreement would be reached. As usual, neither Walter P. Chrysler, corporation chairman, nor John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization, which is supporting the [illegible]

DEATH TAKES E. C. GALLEHER

State Official Was Former Marion Hardin County Resident Born in Morrow Co

FUNERAL TO BE THURSDAY

Former State Examiner Once Held Important Finance Position in Akron

E Clare Galleher 53 former Marion and Kenton resident a native of Morrow county and director of the bond division of the state industrial commission died last night at the Grant hospital in Columbus The Associated Press reported

Death relatives said was due to pneumonia that developed following a kidney operation last Thursday The kidney ailment had been troubling him several years

The body was brought to Marion today to the home of his twin sister Mrs L J Maloney of 407 Forest street

The funeral will be conducted Thursday at 1 30 p m at the Maloney home on Forest street and at 2 p m at the Central Christian church Rev L J Walker of Akron and Dr Harry F Bell pastor will officiate Burial will be made in the Mt Gilead cemetery

Galleher's career in public life began when he became deputy county auditor in Hardin county and included six years as finance director of Akron from 1927 to 1933 He made an unsuccessful bid for the Democratic nomination for auditor of state in 1934 Before becoming finance director of Akron he was a state examiner in the state division of uniform accounting and it was while he was engaged in this work that he made Marion his home for several years

Besides his sister he is survived by his widow formerly Dora Lindsey of Martel and two sons Eldon of Akron and Hadley a student at Ohio State university

Mr Galleher received a special mark of distinction in his career of public work while at Akron His services as finance director were regarded so highly that he was retained through changing administrations and in spite of the fact he was not a member of the political party in power during part of his service

He left the Akron post and turned down an opportunity to run for mayor of Akron to become a candidate for auditor of state

Following his defeat, he became director of the bond division of the state industrial commission, the position he held at the time of his death. He had made his home in Columbus since 1934.

Mr. Galleher was born near Mt. Gilead in Morrow county, July 12, 1884, a son of Melville P. and Zelma Wilson Galleher. His father was a Christian church minister. Shortly after his birth the family moved to Martel, where Mr. Galleher was reared, and attended school He worked a short time at Martel as a railroad telegraph oper-

Floor Leader in Senate Warns of Disorders If Troops Set Up Kitchens To Handle Relief Job

VISIONS 'BLACK EYE'

G O P Chieftain in House Blames Governor for Present Lack of Funds To Assist Unemployed

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O April 6 [illegible] Martin L Davey's [illegible] plan [illegible] through the [illegible] spokesmen of him

Hardly had the governor said he was selecting the military to take over relief when [illegible] relief expires April 15 than two leaders in the legislature opposed him

Sen Keith Lawrence of Cleveland Democratic floor leader in the senate said the use of national guardsmen in setting up soup kitchens might [illegible] disturbances and possibly riots and would give the state a black eye

The house Republican floor leader William M McCulloch of Miami county declared If the governor Davey would have exercised the leadership that is expected of an executive of a great state the people of Ohio would not have been subjected to this humiliation and embarrassment The chief executive knew or should have known six months ago that the [illegible] would be faced with a deficit of $10,000,000 to $1[illegible] Notwithstanding this fact [illegible] recommendation [illegible] to adequately finance [illegible] relief program

At Cleveland where 40 000 persons are on welfare rolls [illegible] County Commissioner Joseph F Gorman said that the plan must be the result of the flu and was utterly ridiculous The governor returned to the capital yesterday after a week's illness at his home in Kent

Fears Demoralization

Hal H Griswold, chairman of the Cuyahoga county relief committee contended The demoralization that will follow such a course is beyond all power of expression

A spokesman for the governor said last night that Cleveland Toledo and Akron were expected to be among the first cities to which field kitchens would be assigned

At Akron Summit County Relief Director Edward J Graham said I think it is just a gesture It could work but why call the national guard into service when machinery is all set now to handle relief in the counties

A different viewpoint came from L G Fighe president of the Akron Chamber of Commerce He asserted From the standpoint of cost and actually keeping people from starving and that is the predicament many people will be in this will be the cheapest way to do it

Wants Hungry Fed

Gov Davey in announcing his plan to newsmen said

There is only one purpose to this move to feed the hungry The state will handle relief through field kitchens until the legislature enacts a program for relief and finances it on something like a permanent basis

I am going to ask the adjutant general to buy additional field kitchens if we do not already have enough '

He predicted that some cities

"BIG BROTHER" PLAN EXPLAINED TO CLUB

Marion Service Group Hears Columbus Secretary; Consider Project for Marion.

Irving A. Wagner, executive secretary of the Big Brother association of Columbus, addressed members of the Marion Service club at a weekly dinner meeting last night at Hotel Harding. He outlined the "Big Brother" program as it is being carried on in Columbus and gave some of the requirements for setting up a similar movement here.

He pointed out that in most cases the home conditions of delinquent children are largely responsible for their delinquency and that is the responsibility of the Big Brother group to help and influence these children The purpose of the program is to prevent delinquency rather than wait until after a child is in trouble to offer assistance, he said

With Mr Wagner were two boys, 10 and 12 years old, whom he referred to as "typical cases" which have come to his attention since the Columbus association's program Most of the work of the association, he said, is privately endorsed

Before the actual organization of a Big Brother movement is undertaken here the Service club plans to study [illegible] in effect in other cities, Ralph E. Carnart, president of the club, said today.

EVE'S ORCHARD

[illegible] marriage [illegible] he walks [illegible] year-old [illegible] kind old [illegible] little [illegible] her [illegible] steady [illegible] keep her [illegible]

and the Grange, the book club, all the civic activities which had owed so much to her aunt, expected her to do what her aunt's niece would do. So she did; it was something to do.

"I couldn't have done differently," she told herself, working alone through the sunny mornings at her kitchen window. She did not mind thinking about things. At first it had hurt to think. Now it made things smoother, clearer. "I couldn't have set Judge adrift in the condition he was in. I couldn't even go off and quit on Uncle Henry now, bless his heart."

She had saved a child to grow up and be sound and right-minded and intelligent in a world that needed such children badly. She had kept a proud, decent old man from unhappiness and dependence. At least her unhappiness had not been in vain. It did not make her happy to feel this. But it made her feel safe. It made her feel right with herself. She had done what the old house made her do, the old house whose people had always stood for right first, for decencies first. Whether or not she was ever happy again, she knew dimly that in the end she could be content.

"If this had happened to me," she thought, "in the city, I couldn't have borne it. Out here I can."

For the house was behind her. The house forgave her and took her back after her years of forgetting it.

She was young and strong and normal. After a while she could forget some of the time, and laugh naturally, and be gay sometimes without pretending.

Ellen came and went. Usually she brought some young actor with her. Rarely the same one twice. They would make a foursome with George, week-ends, driving about the country, swimming, playing tennis. George's place was more and more a rendezvous for the young people around the countryside with its swimming pool, tennis courts, and a host whose housekeeper loved nothing better than unexpected company. There were gaiety and companionship for Eve as well as work. To her surprise the longing for Denny quieted little by little. She hoped they would not meet for a long time.

And at last the summer was over; there was warm, beautiful Connecticut September weather.

Content, Eve Realizes

Working in the old kitchen that September morning, young and light and strong, Eve realized that she was content. She liked to cook and be praised for it and make money by it. She liked to move about her own house and orchard. If she saw Denny, she supposed it would bring the pain back. But she did not have to see Denny.

Uncle Henry passed under the window in his straw hat, calling up a cheery word to her. Judge's clattering feet followed him. "Hey wait for me!" he called shrilly.

She could see the orchard slope where the apples were ripening now in the hot morning sunshine, across the greensward. As she stood by her table singing and beating eggs in the fresh wind, George came past too. He stopped by what had come to be his usual leaning-place, the outside sill.

He said, smiling at her, yet with an odd intensity: "You look as if you liked to do that. Do you?" He was hatless and blue-shirted. He folded his bare sunburned arms on the sill as if he were in no hurry, and waited for her answer.

She was delicious, her curls tied tight in an old copper-colored silk kerchief, her tall slimness wrapped in her long yellow apron, her face flushed and fresh as she scooped the sticky white dough out of the mixing machine.

She laughed and nodded. "Yes, I do. Queer, isn't it, after doing office work so long in New York? But I suppose a string of ancestresses who lived out here and did this—without a mixing machine—are responsible. This is going to be eight handsome loaves of bread for the Methodist church supper. Then I scald it and make three handsome layer cakes for the same. I dug up all my aunt's paraphernalia, by great good luck it didn't go with the premises or it would be a ruin."

"Do the cakes come out in layers?"

"Idiot, of course not! But this thing does the beating for me, in a bigger quantity. If you'd only turned up a little later you could have licked the spoon."

"I might go away and come back," George suggested grinning. "Always wanted to lick the spoon, but the cook never let me. I say, isn't it all odd? Do you remember the night Mitzi brought me to your place first, our talking about kitchens, and both of us thinking the other was a proud city person who had never seen one? And here we are, you in the very kitchen you were being homesick over, and I sticking my head inside fresh from—"

"Fresh from what, out with it!" She looked at him more curiously. "George, you angel, you've been up to some work of mercy, don't deny it."

"Well, I didn't mean to boast—spraying your orchard. I couldn't do less considering I stole suckers last spring."

She dashed to the oven before she spoke, and dragged a pan of rolls out triumphantly. "Just right. I hadn't forgotten. It's good making things. Don't you love to make? I suppose everybody does."

"Yes, I do. But lots don't. Remember, when you were little:

The children of Holland take pleasure in making
What the children of England
take pleasure in breaking

I think those are the main divisions of the world. And I've heard that if there are too many breakers and not enough makers in a generation, or two, things go to smash rather."

She turned serious, bending over her fragrant brown rolls and brushing them over with melted butter with a camel's-hair brush.

"Why, I suppose so—I never thought about it."

"No, your processes are so blessedly unconscious. I'm slow-minded. I have to think things out an inch at a time. But I didn't mean to philosophize, I came really to see if you couldn't leave Adora Gray in charge this afternoon. The Gardiners are coming over for tennis and swimming afterwards."

Adora Gray was a village girl. Eve had had to hire her three days a week during the last month and a half.

"I'll Bring a Cake"

Eve held out a plate of thin white cookies to George, who greedily took a handful, and said thoughtfully: "I can. Judge and Uncle Henry won't mind a pantry supper for once."

"But I was going to get hamburger, and have a fry in the outdoor fireplace. They can come too. We'll try to keep the Gardiners."

"If you think you can get the Gardiners to do anything but stay, when they hear about a hamburger fry, you're an optimist!" Eve said, adding, "I'll bring salad and a chocolate cake—"

"Well, if you have one. Market prices, remember."

"Market price, of course! Or I might charge for everything but the piece I eat myself."

They both laughed. George and Eve had achieved a comradely relation which made George's head in Eve's kitchen window and Eve's presence on George's tennis court a matter of course. His mother was still in Southampton; his father stayed with her except for an occasional week-end.

"Well, I'll let you contribute this cake for the good of the community," he said, showing his big even white teeth as he sauntered off. Eve went back to her baking and singing. It sounded like a swell party.

George reverted again that afternoon, as they lounged in bathing suits on the edge of his pool, to their first meeting.

"Funny, wasn't it?" he said. "I took you for a scornfully sophisticated New York playgirl. And as nearly as I can remember you supposed me to be a haughty, inarticulate slumming—what is that horrible word?—socialite."

"Whereas I was just Little Country Girl Dazzled by Bright Lights," said Eve, thoughtfully regarding one beautifully tanned leg, "and I don't know about your being a socialite; but you darn well aren't inarticulate, Georgie, the only time I get a chance to talk to you is when I interrupt."

"But there was something I wanted to say to you, Eve."

"Heavens, what, that you haven't said in the last three months?"

She laughed again. She felt very happy, stretched along the broad edge of the pool in the bright sunshine.

"Nothing, if you feel that way." Eve absently trailed a hand in the water.

George gets tired of being "an angel," tomorrow, and drives off to a house party.

ENTRY OF AMERICA INTO WAR RECALLED

our unfaltering support to the end that since war must be by that way we will go until the last insult to our flag shall be avenged and unstained and unsullied a mighty token of freedom, 'Old Glory,' shall wave triumphant, not only over this land, but on every sea."

Speeches Mark Event

Prior to the adoption of the resolution the huge crowd at the mass meeting heard talks by D. R. Crissinger, president of the Marion County Bar association, Judge Grant E. Mouser, Dr. T. H. McAfee, Major S. N. Titus, Miss Hilda Gorham, Marion's first Red Cross girl, A. C. Edmondson, C. H. Norris, Rev. Joseph M. Denning, Malcolm Strelitz, George B. Christian, A. M. Reidenbaugh and L. E. Myers.

The account of the mass meeting, published in The Star, described the crowd as one of the largest ever assembled in Marion and said, "From the walls of the courthouse to the walls of the business buildings on the other side there was one solid mass of people."

Mayor Sautter, presiding at the meeting, spoke, in part, as follows: "At this critical period when we are facing such serious disaster in being placed in a position whereby we may be plunged into war, the people of Marion and Marion county have expressed a desire that a mass meeting might be called whereby they might express their feelings and sentiments along patriotic lines, and show by their co-operation and attendance their great loyalty and patriotism at this time.

"Therefore, this meeting has been called, and I feel sure that the enthusiasm and patriotic spirit as manifested here this evening positively verifies the fact that Marion does not lack in true loyalty to our flag and country. We have had numerous inquiries from all classes of our citizens, men and women, boys and girls, offering their services to help make this meeting a success.

"Different organizations of the city are now planning to have committees to look after civic protection in case war is declared and a call is made for volunteers. Another movement which is on foot is a plan whereby we may help to provide and prevent a shortage in necessities of life.

"Vacant lots in the city for cultivation are being secured by the Social Service league. Working along these lines it is expected there will be a definite plan whereby in the next few days will see the plan completed.

"This meeting is to be an informal one and there are a large number of citizens who want to give us an expression of their feeling."

Declaration An Anti-Climax

Due to the certainty for several days before hand that war would be declared and due to the sentiment that was sweeping the entire country at that time, the city gave vent to its feelings at the mass meeting with the result that the actual declaration of war came somewhat as an anti-climax. The day war was declared found Marion progressing steadily with a program of preparedness work it had undertaken a number of days before.

One of the projects was the gardening of vacant lots in the city to build a reserve against the certain shortage of food war would bring. Mayor Sautter, in a communication addressed to the general public, said, in part: "The mayor believes it to be the duty of every citizen in the city of Marion to make use of all the available space for gardening purposes. There is no better way of showing true patriotism without shouldering a gun than in helping to reduce the high cost of living and the mayor highly approves and endorses the movement of the Social Service league of the city in its efforts to have all vacant lots in Marion cultivated and has consented to help and work in conjunction with the league in this matter."

The mayor simultaneously appointed committees, one in each ward, to canvass the entire city immediately and obtain the location of all lots and lands within the corporation which ordinarily would go uncultivated. The committees consisted of: First ward, George Whysall and F. J. Bush; Second ward, Daniel W. Murphy and Thomas Meade; Third ward, Frank Beck, George W. Smith, Frank J. Weber and M. H. Pinyerd; Fourth ward, Charles J. Gompf, Elmer J. Schoenlaub and J. J. Stafford. These committees were to report to Miss Jean Wood, secretary of the league.

Another development on the day war was declared was the arrival in Marion of E. A. Marks, gunners mate in the navy, and W. S. Rickey, water tender in the navy, representing the Cleveland district in the recruiting of men for the navy. They sought 500 men by April 20 and announced they hoped to get a large number in Marion before leaving the following Monday. Although they arrived too late in the day to obtain any enlistments on the day war was declared by the United States, they obtained several men by 9 o'clock the next morning. The first actual enlistment for the navy in Marion was made by Eugene Miller of Bennett street, enlisted as an apprentice seaman. He was six feet four inches tall, and the recruiting officers said he was the tallest man to enlist in the navy in a number of years. Others who made up the first enlistments were Clinton Courtright of 526 Blaine avenue, John Patton of 164 Windsor street, Harry Evans of Olney avenue, E. P. Welch of 164 Park boulevard, O. Owens of 181 Sharp street, M. C. McGrath of 316 Chestnut street, T. R. Young of 322 Senate street, Robert Hecker of 381 Windsor street, all of whom were to go to Cleveland for a final examination and enlistment.

Co. D. Takes Recruits

Although naval enlistments were not made until Saturday, a number of Marion men answered the call to colors on the previous day, the same day on which war was declared. These included Phillip Brooks, Earl Cook, James Kline and Harry Cramer, all of whom joined Co. D, a reserve corps which had just returned to Marion from duty on the Mexican border, while Robert Chapman enlisted in the regular infantry branch of the army. The following morning, Walter D. Leeper of 376 Fairview street also joined the regular army infantry branch.

Early enlistment activities in Marion were stimulated by the offers of two residents of the city who were above the age for active war service. They were Joseph D. Guthery and Frank H. Roberts, who announced they would give $1,000 to be divided equally among the first ten Marion boys to enlist. A newspaper article telling of their offer specified that all enlistments must be new ones and that this applies to men enlisting in a cavalry troop, if one is organized in Marion, to a motorcycle corps, which in all probability will be organized by Dr. N. P. [illegible], to D Co. which is being recruited to full war strength, and to the reserve engineer corps which is being organized by Capt. F. H. Cowan backed by the Chamber of Commerce.

Marion clubs and organizations, among them the Marion Rifle club which was a member of the coast defense league and headed by James F. Missenge, adopted resolutions of loyalty and patriotism on the eve of the declaration of war.

Caledonia community was perturbed [illegible] on the day before the declaration by an alarm occasioned by the temporary quartering of three men who represented themselves to be agents of the government and who carried pencil sketches of the Erie railroad bridge at Caledonia. When they inquired about housing facilities at Caledonia for 50 men who they said were to lengthen the bridge, Marshal A. F. Jackson took them into custody and Mayor J. F. Baker questioned them. They were unable to show any credentials excepting passes on the railroad. The men were set free but later sought when it was learned no work on the bridge at Caledonia was planned. Fearing a plot to destroy the bridge the railroad company ordered it guarded.

There was a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce offices on the eve of the declaration of war to discuss the organization of a home guard to protect local interests in the event Co. D should be called from the city into active service. Plans were made to seek an organization of 150 persons subject to call for local service in emergencies.

Flag Shortage Threatens

A shortage of American flags in Marion and throughout the country was threatened as patriotic citizens made unprecedented demands for them.

On the day before the declaration of war, Marion women began to show patriotism and willingness to help in war preparations. Mrs. James A. McMurray, a member of the Red Cross society, reported receiving messages from many Marion women expressing their desire to volunteer their services to the society. Mrs. James E. Phillips and daughter, Miss Isabelle, were among those tendering their services.

F. H. Cowan, now a Marion real estate dealer and former manager of the Marion Water Co., began taking enrollments for a Marion Engineer Reserve corps several days before the formal declaration. He made his headquarters at the Y. M. C. A. and enrolled men under authority of the war department. The company was to be made up of skilled mechanics, engineers and laborers. He acted with the backing of Marion industrial leaders who had signed a formal statement supporting his efforts. The signers were F. F. Ballow of the Huber Mfg. Co., L. W. Owen of Marion Dr. Tool & Machine Co., Dana Evans of the John Evans Lime & Stone Co., J. M. Pitman of the Power Mfg. Co., William J. Gordon of the Marion Lumber Co., W. H. Houghton of the Houghton Motor Car Co., W. J. English, division superintendent of the Erie railroad, Charles F. King of the Marion Steam Shovel Co., H. C. King of the King Lumber Co., J. H. Hamilton of the Stauffer Lumber Co., O. O. Bell of the Interstate Iron & Steel Co., C. L. LaMarche of the American Malleable Castings Co., John D. Owens of the Osgood Co., C. R. McMurray of the McMurray Sulky Co., George Whysall of the Marion & Bucyrus Railway Co., E. H. Cowan of the Marion Water Co., M. A. Mickley of the Marion Gas Co., C. W. Leffler of the Leffler & Bland firm, W. H. Holverstott of the Marion Tire & Rubber Co., C. F. Meckel of the Meckel Implement Co., J. L. Price of the J. L. Price Co., and J. C. Fairbanks of the Fairbanks Steam Shovel Co.

Munition Trains

It was a common occurrence for munitions trains to pass through Marion around the period when war was declared. On April 3 a special fast train of 43 cars en route for the east was loaded with munitions and a large army gun.

The display of patriotic colors began in Marion immediately after President Wilson made public his request to congress to declare that a state of war existed between the United States and Germany.

A Marion Red Cross organization was formed here a few days before war was declared after members of the William Hendricks chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution launched a movement for its organization as a war preparedness measure.

A period of several weeks before the declaration of war saw the organization of several companies of pupils in Marion schools for training and drilling, with the approval of the board of education and Superintendent Hartmann. The latter, in a talk to members of the school board, made it plain he approved of the drilling and training because of the exercise and physical development it brought to the pupils and not as a means of military preparedness.

"IT'S SWELL TO BE OUT OF THE 'ALL THREE' CLASS"

"I'M STEPPING OUT IN A BIG BEAUTIFUL NASH—AND IT COST ME ONLY A FEW DOLLARS MORE* THAN ONE OF THOSE SMALLER CARS!"

When R. L. Smith started out to buy a new car, he looked at the "All Three" cars . . . then saw Nash. "I got the surprise of my life," said Mr. Smith, "when I found that big Nash LaFayette-"400" 2-door sedan delivered for only a few dollars more than the similarly equipped 2-door sedan of one of the 'All Three' small cars."

Look at that car in the picture. It's a great big 117-inch wheelbase car. You get a more powerful six cylinder engine. Larger hydraulic brakes. Strongest type of steel body construction in the industry. Roomy, spacious interiors. Much more "real automobile" . . . yet this big Nash LaFayette-"400" delivers for just a FEW dollars more than the "All Three" small cars.

See Nash for VALUE. Let the X-Ray System open your eyes to the amazing value Nash now offers. See it at all Nash showrooms now.

Actual photograph of Nash LaFayette-"400" 2-Door Sedan with trunk

*FOR AS LITTLE AS $1 OR $2 A MONTH EXTRA YOU CAN GET OUT OF THE "ALL THREE" CLASS. A check-up recently made in ten representative cities shows that the Nash LaFayette-"400" 4-Door Sedan with trunk DELIVERS for just a FEW dollars more than the similarly equipped 4-door sedans of the "All Three" small cars. In many places, the SLIGHT difference in price amounts to just $1 or $2 a month extra on your time payments.

$25 A MONTH fits into the convenient terms and low rates available through the Nash C. I. T. Budget plan. In most places, you can pay as little as $25 a month on your time payments. Automatic Cruising Gear now available on all Nash Models at slight extra cost.

Consumer Control.

The fact of immediate importance in the new contract covering union miners in the soft coal industry is that a threatened strike which would have thrown approximately [illegible] men out of work has been averted.

Of equal or greater importance in the long run is the bearing which the terms of the contract may have on a troubled industry. Coal must operators cannot be made more expensive without giving it a handicap in competition with oil, gas and hydroelectric energy. The wage increase given to miners, it is said, will make coal prices higher. Operators insist they must pass most of the added cost of production along to consumers.

It remains to be seen what, if any, effect higher prices will have on coal consumption. If no effect is visible, it may be presumed organized labor will want higher wages when the new contract expires. On the other hand, if an effect does become visible, organized labor will want higher wages anyway. Its demands, in that case, however, would not be so hard to resist.

The consumer is, in the last analysis, the controlling factor in all wage adjustments. While it is difficult to imagine a situation in which coal would be prohibitively expensive, it is subject, within limits, to the same laws of buying power as those which govern less essential commodities. Recognition by labor leadership in all fields that this is the case is fully as important as recognition by management of the necessity for distributing buying power as generously and as equitably as possible.

Mr. Ford's Position.

Sitdown threats against Ford Motor Co., third of the three largest manufacturers of popular priced cars, have been an accompaniment of both the General Motors and Chrysler strikes.

This is a situation to be dealt with in the future. Henry Ford may be presumed to be looking at possibilities with no less realism, however, than the labor leaders who are threatening him.

In this connection, it is being recalled that in October, 1934, he told an interviewer:

"Labor? Capital? What are they? Do my employes work for me, or do I work for them? Bargaining as we see it conducted by unions and employers by strikes and lockouts, degenerates into a struggle to get the better of the other fellow. I cannot see myself as bargaining against my men. I cannot accept a method which implies that our interests are not identical. My job (among other things) is to share the profits so that they can buy their own products. At that, I wouldn't call strikes waste, or advocate any fascist system of calling them all off. They are experience. The strikers learn, the public learns and some times the employers learn."

Mr. Ford's economic situation is such that he can afford the luxury of following principles—and his principles are a matter of record.

Blasts on a Whistle.

Presidential recommendations on relief will be submitted to congress within the next week or 10 days. Even if the White House hadn't released the information, the public would have another way of finding out.

The United States conference of mayors has just delivered a pronunciation on federal relief policy. Spokesman Fiorello LaGuardia says $2,250,000,000 should be appropriated — not a cent less—for [illegible] persons.

Without pretense of knowing why the conference of mayors always times its demands to call attention to something the Roosevelt administration is going to do or has just done, it may be said, nevertheless, that the result seems to be anything but accidental.

In politics it is mighty handy to have someone outside the charmed circle blow blasts on a whistle to command attention or to distract attention when it not [illegible] is wanted. It seems probable, therefore, that the United States conference of mayors, which usually speaks with the voice of Fiorelloa LaGuardia of New York, is performing the function of whistle tooter for the new deal on all matters pertaining to relief.

They used to call this "sending up a trial balloon," but with Mayor LaGuardia mixed up in it anything so [illegible] as a balloon would make a poor figure of speech.

[illegible] Wagner [illegible]

[illegible] senate of [illegible] proposals [illegible] by Senator Tydings of Maryland to prohibit coercion or intimidation from any source.

On May [illegible] 1935 Senator Wagner at [illegible] Mr. Wagner said:

"So far as this proposition is concerned I think the bill ought to be amended so as to include [illegible] intimidation of workmen from any source. If there is any question as to whether the courts have not [illegible] and [illegible] mean that the [illegible] when the workers [illegible] I want to make that clear.

"Now I [illegible] ought to be amended just as [illegible] intimidation [illegible] from any source [illegible] organization of a company [illegible] employers [illegible] to be made an unfair labor practice [illegible] we are in agreement on that."

Important Figure

The witness happened to be someone who is an important figure so far as employers are concerned, James A. Emery, general counsel of the National Association of Manufacturers. In the same hearing, the point was [illegible] made [illegible] which appears in the official record:

"Senator Wagner: Mr. Emery, I [illegible] the act as suggested it should be [illegible] so that any intimidation, coercion or anything of that kind is an improper labor practice.

"Mr. Emery: 'Unfair labor practice.'

"Senator Wagner: Unfair labor practice from whatever source it may come. Then the power would go to labor organizations [illegible] would [illegible] the power to

[illegible] statement [illegible]

Recalling that the President had endorsed the principle publicly and that Senator Wagner himself had accepted it at the hearings during the same month the [illegible] and when the Wagner bill was up for passage the [illegible] of an amendment embodying those [illegible] Senator Tydings proposed it on May 16, 1935 and his amendment would have prohibited coercion or intimidation from any source. But labor union supporters and administration leaders including Senator Wagner, combined to defeat the proposal. The argument was that the courts already had sufficient power to restrain coercion. The late Senator Couzens of Michigan was amazed at Senator Wagner's refusal to stick by his original pledge. Mr. Couzens is quoted in the official record as follows:

"Of course the senator from Maryland knows as does the senator from New York [illegible] and that is the reason why I am astonished by the objection of the senator from New York to this amendment—that in every big industrial community there is competition between one union and another. There is just as much fight, there is just as much effort, there is just as much antagonism, there is just as much force used in many cases to induce workmen to join one union as to join another. For the life of me I do not understand why a union should be enabled to coerce a worker into an organization which he does not choose to join.

"What the senator from Michigan is trying to do is to support the contention of the senator from Maryland that coercion between union and union should be prohibited. It is not enough to say that in the jurisdictions there is sufficient remedy. If there is sufficient remedy, as the senator from New York contends, let us put it in the act."

Was Friend Of Labor

Senator Couzens was a friend of labor and one of the "liberals" in the senate. But the Tydings amendment was defeated and thus the matter was turned over to state courts on the assumption that they could deal with coercion of workmen by fellow workmen. Today as a result of the failure of Senator Wagner and the Roosevelt administration to permit his own law to be amended, there is no federal prohibition of coercion by workers of fellow workers and the state of Michigan has found itself powerless to enforce the laws that Mr. Wagner had insisted were the remedy for the situation complained of by the employers.

If the reasoning used by Senator Wagner in his speech in the senate last week were to be followed, then the refusal of the employers to accept the Wagner labor relations act and their insistence on getting court injunctions was in itself provoked by Senator Wagner and his colleagues who refused to make the national labor relations act two-sided, in which case the "sitdown" strike would have been a violation of the labor relations act. Then union labor could have likewise applied for injunctions restraining the courts, and, until the legality of the issue had been determined in an orderly way in the courts, sitdown strikes would have been held in abeyance. For the courts usually grant injunctions whenever destruction of property is threatened, and the loss by failure to restrain the complained-of act is likely to involve irreparable losses while the subject is being adjudicated.

What of the Day?

Bernard M. Baruch was chairman of the war industries board in the World war. Upon him Woodrow Wilson placed the responsibility of supervising the mobilization of materials for the American and the Allied armies and the civilian population. At Versailles Mr. Baruch was an economic advisor to the American peace commission.

By BERNARD M. BARUCH

Written for The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 6.—On this twentieth anniversary of America's entrance into the war, I would like to believe the world had learned the futility of conflict.

I would like to believe that aggression and nationalist hatreds exist only in the history books, that nations could settle their disputes peacefully. I would like to believe that the world practiced the high idealism of Woodrow Wilson, that his hope had become a reality. I would like to believe every nation hated war equally.

But we learned little, if anything, from the war. The nations of the world are marching again down the same old road that led to 1914.

Instead of the disarmament envisioned by the treaty of Versailles, the world is spending astronomical sums for new weapons of destruction. Instead of the security promised by the treaty, the feeling of insecurity surpasses even the early summer of 1914. The treaty itself has been nullified.

It is horrifying to consider the consequences of the war for which the world is now preparing. You may be sure the civilian population will not be spared. The devastation in Spain is but a miniature example.

Of what is this civilization of which we speak so much and so proudly? It is not pleasing to write of such madness, but it is no avail to present false portrayals.

There is more to the threatening situation than the billions being spent for defenses and rearmaments. Billions which, if used in the ways of peace would go far toward abolishing slums and lessening poverty.

Economic Gibraltars and Verduns have been erected and these barriers to trade have increased the international ill-will. Their elimination alone would be a great contribution to peace. This government has offered to the world a program for their elimination to end the spread of economic nationalism. Considerable benefit has resulted, but it has been difficult to obtain the following of nations barricaded behind quotas and trade restrictions.

Who and what is to blame for this departing sense?

Farley Counts the Votes

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 5—Postmaster General Farley was just about right when he said "we" have enough votes to put the supreme court packing plan over in congress.

Considerable bluffing and bragging is going on. Neither side is saying all it knows nor all it intends to do. Nevertheless, the inside checking done within the past few days indicates President Roosevelt can force his bill through with anywhere from 51 to 57 votes, if he chooses and if he can get it to a vote.

The opposition leaders are accommodatingly saying off the record they do not intend to filibuster. In fact, they privately agree Mr. Roosevelt has, or can get, the votes.

Twins

These twin developments, however, may not be as important as they sound. The truth is, Mr Roosevelt will leave the senate floor strewn with bitterness and strife, which may conceivably injure his political party for years to come, if he exerts the force which is in his power.

Furthermore, the opposition senators will certainly change their minds about not filibustering, unless they get some kind of inside agreement on new court appointees or satisfactory concessions. (Senators always talk differently than they act whenever filibusters are concerned. They have even been known to deny publicly that they were filibustering while openly engaged in it.)

Consequently, while Mr. Roosevelt theoretically has the votes, and his opponents are rolling over on their backs as if to be run over voluntarily, the situation is far from being fixed.

Whipping Boy

If newspapers were guilty of all the sins ascribed to them, no editor could aspire to any higher future than stoker in the lowest hold of hades. Latest transgression officially attributed to them is the series of yarns about a world peace or disarmament move.

Messrs. Roosevelt and Hull have announced it grieves them very much to say it, but there is not one particle, iota, or particle of an iota of truth in the inference that something may be attempted for disarmament or peace. The suggestion has been stamped officially as "pure newspaper-inspired stories."

The infinitesimal particle-iota in their announcement is that the press of London and Paris, whence all these latest stories come, is an official press. It is the kind of press which suppresses a Simpson affair until the government wants it printed, or flays the hide of Mussolini when the foreign office wants it flayed, or soothes him with balm next day upon orders.

Wants

The detectable facts seem to be these:

Messrs. Roosevelt, Hull, Norman Davis, Bullitt and others are very actively trying to promote a disarmament or peace move, but find themselves in an extremely difficult situation. As everyone now knows, disarmament conferences are not the open-hearted, [illegible] gatherings they were supposed to be prior to 1921.

Peace moves involve barter and trade of a particularly crafty nature because national safety is involved.

London and Paris

London and Paris could desire nothing better than to have Mr. Roosevelt call a disarmament conference and take the responsibility for its success. If he did it without getting any advance assurances from the other nations as to what would be agreed upon, he would just now assume the responsibility for working out a solution of the European situation which European statesmen have not been able to solve.

Of course, what Britain wants primarily from such a conference or seems to is access to our raw materials in case of war. What France wants is what she has been trying unsuccessfully to get for the past 20 years—security. Mr. Roosevelt is not in a position to give either Britain or France its requirements, and therefore finds his task complicated.

Parking

But the really important world problem to many congressmen is how they are going to get their cars in the special capitol garage. The house has decided to legislate on the subject.

A representative arose to the floor the other day and proposed an amendment to the legislative appropriation bill. He protested that the capitol architect and congressional secretaries were filling available garage space so that he and some others were unable to park their cars. His amendment would write into law the prior rights of legislators to the garage. It was adopted.

The Other One

Mildest of all gentle grafts is congressional mileage. Unselfish Congressman Mitchell of Tennessee arose the other day and moved to cut the mileage allowance of each congressman from 20 cents to 10 cents to save $75,000 a year. He pointed out it does not cost the legislators even 10 cents a mile to get to and from their homes these days. They flew at him, howling such things as "why don't you try to cut down something important?" and "have you turned back your extra 10 cents?"

The vote showed exactly two favoring the curtailment and 78 against, but you will never know who was the other unselfish congressman beside Mitchell, because congress never takes roll calls on such delicate matters.

The only thing certain is that 434 congressmen will be saying in the next election that they were the other one.

Achievements of Deaf People

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 6—Achievements of the deafened have proved that this affliction is not always a handicap. The most conspicuous example, of course, is the late Thomas A. Edison. Indeed, many believe deafness is a spur to successful endeavor. It has chivvied many out of ruts.

Young Howard Hughes who has proved the most recent spectacular pilot of the skies, can scarcely hear the roar of his engines. And his illustrious uncle Rupert is a lip reader always in high demand in the literary marts and as a public orator. And is an accomplished musician.

Royal Brown, who turns out such fascinating love idylls is stone deaf. Rex Cole, the refrigerator tycoon, is partially deaf and the late editor Ray Long could not hear in one ear. And Idwal Jones, who writes such beautiful prose, is also an ear cupper.

There are many more notable examples. Such as Marconi and Ellen Glasgow, the novelist. Actors like especially to perform for the hard of hearing because they are reputedly not only the most attentive but the most appreciative of humor and dramatic skill.

Candour in a Bronx bakery: "Pies like mother used to make 5 cents. Pies like mother used to try to make—10 cents."

The three-cent hash houses on the Bowery have no squeamishness among customers. In surroundings repulsive to the average diner, the outcasts —mostly mendicants —eat and with apparent gusto. There is sawdust on the floor and ceilings are often a crawling blanket of cockroaches. Menus are frosted on the windows and a filling meal may be secured for 11 cents. Nobody takes or removes his hat in the hash house. The waiters are smudgy aproned, beetle browed—and one cheep from a customer and out he goes on his ear. A man who owns a chain of these cheap eateries is said to live in splendor uptown. He was pointed out to me lunching at the Ritz one day.

Burton Holmes is among the increasing number of kimona addicts about his apartment. He receives guests so clad as do Roy Howard and numerous others who have spent much time in the Far East. Noel Coward goes in for kimonas when turning out a play and so does Cole Porter when in the throes of tune tinkering. Adolph Menjou has a notable supply. A department store has opened a man's kimona section.

There's a wince watching owners of those tiny portable eat and drink stands move across town after midnight. Entire investments are not more than $30, including the wagons. Yet from these skeleton beginnings, many manage to rear families. They are on the job from 7 a. m. until midnight, constantly harried by prodding policemen. Notwithstanding any number have become owners of prosperous eat shops. One now affluent was once known along Delancey street as Joe, The Hokey-Pokey man.

DAVEY PENSION MOVE FOUGHT

Senator Vows Bill "Shall Not Pass" as Two Other Hot Issues Come Up.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 6 — A senator's pledge that "so help me God, this bill shall not pass" brought into the open today a bitter fight over a proposal in the Ohio legislature to centralize administration of aid for the aged.

[illegible] such strong language that a colleague called him down, William J. Zoul, Democrat of Cuyahoga, shouted before the senate finance committee that he would defeat the administration sponsored measure "if I never do anything else in the legislature."

While the committee made the bill a special order of business for today, the senate and house prepared to vote on two other highly controversial proposals.

Parochial Aid Up

One, up in the senate would appropriate $3,500,000 annually for the education of pupils in parochial and private schools. The other was the $60,000,000 biennial appropriation bill before the house.

The aid for aged bill, already approved by the house, would take pensions out of the hands of boards of county commissioners and permit the state division of aid for the aged to set up county subdivisions. It also would create 440 new job by requiring five-member advisory boards in each county.

Henry J. Berrodin, state aid for aged administrator, said that local politics had influenced the granting of assistance to the indigent aged in numerous counties.

Sen. Zoul, who objected principally to taking the handling of pensions away from county commissioners, demanded to know what "sinister forces are behind this bill which the finance committee is seeking to rush to a vote."

Pension Bill Delayed

The senate labor committee recommended for passage two months ago a pension bill offered by Zoul and Sen. William Boyd, Democrat of Cuyahoga, but the rules committee has declined to bring it up for a vote.

The Zoul-Boyd bill would set up a five-member state council to administer aid for the aged and remove the activity from control of the state welfare department. The house-approved bill would leave pensions in the welfare department.

George H. Clark of Columbus, who represented himself to be secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Society of Old Age Pensioners, said the house bill was an "unholy proposition" designed to "ram a political monopoly down the throats of three million voters."

Chairman Emerson Campbell, Democrat of Belmont, asked Clark "to tell this committee how much you are collecting from the old age pensioners for your work."

Refuses to Answer

Clark refused, saying "I'm not on the witness stand."

He declared that the Fraternal Order of Eagles and Ohio Federation of Labor were sponsoring the bill and added:

"Let them tend to their own business and we'll tend to ours."

Berrodin, formerly national head of the Eagles, said two-thirds of the organization's aeries in Ohio had indorsed the bill.

Earlier, the senate voted down a proposal to increase the compensation of county treasurers and other agents of the state for handling sales tax stamps. The vote on the bill, which had been passed by the house, was 16 no to 13 yes.

A house bill to permit the seizure of licensed dogs running at large in a rabies quarantine was recommitted to the senate health committee after Zoul called it a "vicious" measure which would allow seizure of dogs in their owners' homes.

Trustees of Bowling Green university would be authorized to erect dormitories under a bill which the senate passed and sent to the house.

Central Vote Count Fails

The house defeated, on a vote of 51 to 51, a bill to authorize central counting of election returns in counties. Seventy votes were needed for passage.

A bill of Rep. Sydney A. Hesse, Democrat of Cuyahoga to authorize political subdivisions to fund scrip and notes issued in anticipation of the collection of delinquent taxes was passed, 100 to 0, and sent to the senate.

The senate health committee, after failing in two attempts, recommended for passage the bill of Sen. E. Matthews Steele, Democrat of Clinton to permit the sterilization of feeble-minded and epileptic patients before their release from state institutions.

CAPITAL'S WAGE LAW IS DECLARED VALID

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 6—President Roosevelt sent to congress today an opinion by Attorney General Cummings declaring the District of Columbia minimum wage law for women is valid as a result of the supreme court decision upholding a similar Washington state law.

The court's March 29 decision overruled its 14-year-old finding that the local statute was unconstitutional.

A legal question then arose as to whether the latter had to be reenacted to become operative. The President asked the attorney general for his views.

Mr. Roosevelt, transmitting the opinion to Vice President Garner and Speaker Bankhead, wrote that many developments have taken place during the long period when the local law was inoperative. He suggested congress might desire to consider amendments.

MANSFIELD WORKERS GIVEN SECOND RAISE

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., April 6.—A. E. Allen, vice president of the Westinghouse Electric Co., announced today a second pay increase within three weeks for the nearly 1,000 workers in the Mansfield plant.

Effective as of April 1, the new rates raise hourly wages for men employes six cents and women five cents.

All salaried employes receiving $250 or less per month are being given increases to the 1929 level if their salaries are now below that figure, Allen said.

With increases granted three weeks ago as part of the company's profit-sharing plan for employes, the Mansfield plant's pay roll will be raised [illegible] to about [illegible] a year, the vice president declared.

'TRAILER' CATHEDRAL PLANNED BY BISHOP

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 6.—Rt. Rev. Henry W. Hobson, D. D., bishop of southern Ohio announced plans today at the [illegible] annual convention of the diocese of southern Ohio, Protestant Episcopal church, for the construction of a "cathedral on wheels" and the razing of the old St. Paul's Cathedral building in downtown Cincinnati.

Bishop Hobson, the youngest bishop in America at 45, is chairman of the forward movement commission of the Episcopal church.

"St. Paul's wayside cathedral" the bishop said, would enable him to minister directly to all the parishes and missions of the diocese with a greater program of service. The cathedral, he said, would go to the people of the diocese, instead of waiting for them to come to it.

The traveling cathedral will contain, in addition to an altar and cathedra (bishop's chair), a library, motion picture projector and camera, film library and displays from all the diocesan departments. Seating space for 24 persons would be provided for services within the cathedral, while the sides could be raised and a loudspeaker system used for outdoor services.

According to the police radio report they were wanted in connection with the theft of three men's suits from a Galion clothing store.

U. S. COURT UPHOLDS "WINDFALL" TAX LAW

Declares Processors Had Shifted Burden and That It Was Not Regulatory.

By The Associated Press

RICHMOND, Va., April 6—The fourth federal circuit court of appeals today upheld the constitutionality of the "windfall" taxes in affirming the decision of the district court at Salisbury, N. C., in the case of the White Packing Co. versus the collector of internal revenue.

The opinion in the case, written by Judge John J. Parker, upheld the district court's dismissal of a suit brought to enjoin collection of the 80 per cent tax under title three of the revenue act of 1936.

The court declared that the Packing Co. came under the classification of those processors who had shifted the burden of the processing tax, later declared unconstitutional, without paying it.

The supreme court decision in invalidating the processing tax, the court here said, held it invalid because it was not a tax at all but a mere step in a plan for the regulation of agriculture beyond the powers of congress.

"The 'windfall' tax, on the other hand, is not a step in any plan of unconstitutional regulation of agriculture or industry, but a tax in the strictest sense of the word imposed for the purpose of meeting an anticipated deficit in the budget due to the passage of the soldiers' bonus bill and the invalidation of the processing taxes," Judge Parker's decision said.

JOHN ROOSEVELT'S ENGAGEMENT DENIED

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, April 6—Mrs. H. Haven Clark, mother of Anne Lindsay Clark, Boston debutante who is a guest at the White House, said today she knew of no engagement of her daughter and John Roosevelt, youngest son of the President.

Mrs. Clark said Anne, recently broke her engagement to Samuel Stevens Sands, son of Mrs. Richard Whitney and grandson of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt Sr.

Mrs. Clark said her daughter would remain at the White House until Thursday, when she would go to New York. John Roosevelt, a junior at Harvard is a fellow student of young Sands.

FICKLE MOTHER NATURE CORNERS CORN MARKET

Drouth Skyrockets Prices After Regulations Prevent Manipulation of Supply To Affect Quotations.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 6—Mother Nature is "manipulating the corn market.

Grain traders said today skyrocketing corn prices to the highest level in 17 years and dwindling supplies have brought about a market phenomenon—a "natural corner."

This is to be distinguished, they said, from that now impossible market situation known as a "technical" or "manipulated corner." The latter is now unlawful and there are strict board of trade regulations to prevent it. The "natural corner," traders said, just can't be helped.

The "corner" in market parlance means that a trader or a group of traders have bought all or virtually all of the supply of a commodity and therefore can dictate the price. A perfect "corner" in grain never has been worked, traders said, because it is practically impossible to buy all the wheat, or corn or oats in sight, particularly because these grains are grown in many parts of the world.

However, many spectacular "near corners" stud the trade's history in the days before stringent rules were applied. They involved the big traders of that era—Patten, Hutchinson, Harper, Leiter and Phillips. Nearly every attempted corner was a ruinous failure.

Mother Nature has been doing none of the market manipulation which brings about a "technical corner." Instead, over a period of years she has been restricting the supply of corn. In 1934 drouth cut the domestic crop to the smallest volume in half a century. Production rose to 2,300,000,000 bushels in 1935 but last year it was the second smallest in 50 years, only 1,524,000,000 bushels.

As a result there is now a widespread shortage of corn supplies. Many traders believe there is not enough corn to meet livestock feeding requirements. Corn for immediate delivery in Chicago is quoted above $1.40 a bushel, highest since 1920. The May future contract, calling for delivery next month, is quoted above $1.32, a rise of more than 20 cents in two weeks and the highest since 1925.

OHIO WAGE LAW TEST WILL BE ABANDONED

Decision To Drop Battle Against Minimum Pay Follows High Court Ruling.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 6—Mrs. Agnes B. Dickinson, counsel in an action challenging the constitutionality of Ohio's minimum wage law for women, announced today she would abandon the case.

"It seems unwise to prosecute these cases further," Mrs. Dickinson said in a statement. "I shall prepare appropriate entries closing them."

A three-judge federal court upheld the constitutionality of the Ohio statute in November and Mrs. Dickinson had prepared an appeal to the U. S. supreme court on the ground that the law "violates the constitutional provision of liberty of contract."

Her decision to abandon the case followed the supreme court's ruling eight days ago that a Washington state minimum wage law was constitutional. The court's decision reversed itself on a previous ruling against a District of Columbia minimum wage law.

More than 40,000 women and minors have been brought under operation of the Ohio law, which permits the state director of industrial relations to put into effect and require compliance with a "fair wage" defined by the statute as "a wage fairly and reasonably commensurate with the value of the service or class of service rendered."

O. B. Chapman, industrial relations director, has issued mandatory wage orders for laundries, affecting 5,400 persons, dry cleaners with 2,000 employes and hotels and restaurants totaling 35,000 workers.

Miss Elaine Sheffler, superintendent of the minimum wage division, is now surveying the retail store industry intending to formulate wage orders for its 60,000 workers.

Violations of the wage orders are punishable by fines of $50 to $200 and jail terms of 10 to 90 days.

will be in deep distress on April 15," and reiterated his stand for matching by local subdivisions of state grants for relief.

An indication that the governor did not expect to have to put the field kitchen plan into effect and that the legislature might be forced to speed up its consideration of relief plans came in his statement that he hoped his order would result in "some kind of a permanent solution" and "probably will bring about some action in local communities."

Wants 50-50 Matching

He has suggested that the legislature set up a permanent relief plan requiring 50-50 matching of state and local funds for relief; enabling local subdivisions to levy new taxes to finance their share of relief cost; and levying of a state tax to meet the state's share.

The house already has passed a two-year relief bill, but the senate has left the house bill lie while a senate relief committee has drafted other measures. One would set up a permanent relief program and require counties to match state grants. It carries no appropriation.

The other likewise would set up a two-year program, appropriating $7,000,000 in 1937 and $8,000,000 for 1938, and require matching.

SCHOOL CONTEST SET FOR TONIGHT

County Pupils To Vie for Declamatory Honors.

The declamatory contest for county elementary pupils from grades three, four and five will be held at Central Junior High school tonight at 8 o'clock. The elementary contests began last Friday night when competition was held for the first and second grades.

D. T. Mills county school superintendent, will preside at the program tonight and awards will be presented by Paul Furniss of Agosta, chairman of the county literary committee. Music will be under the direction of Gifford Menzie, music instructor at Green Camp, Waldo, Grand Prairie and Marion township schools. The third division of the contest, for pupils of grades six, seven and eight, will be held April 8.

MICHIGAN TURNING AGAINST DEMOCRATS

Two G. O. P. Court Candidates and Four Others Win by Narrow Margins.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, April 6—Michigan Republicans apparently reversed the trend of last November in yesterday's election for minor state officers.

Most of the contests in yesterday's off-year election were exceptionally close, but incomplete returns indicated that Republicans had reelected two justices of the state supreme court and four incumbents of lesser offices, some by the narrowest of margins.

The Democrats, however, could boast of the only runaway vote in State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner whose majority approached 100,000. The other Democrats held majorities that seemed fairly safe.

Some political observers had expected the election to provide a test of public sentiment toward reorganization of the United States supreme court and conciliatory dealings with sitdown strikes, issues that have arisen since the Democratic landslide of November.

The prevalence of split ballots complicated any analysis of the returns as a referendum on national issues. The only incontrovertible conclusion was that there was a reversal of the trend that gave President Roosevelt a 300,000 majority and other Democratic candidates lesser majorities in the November election.

DR. TIPPETT TO ADDRESS HARDING SENIOR CLASS

Bexley Minister Accepts Board's Invitation To Deliver Graduation Address; School Finances Discussed.

In a meeting yesterday afternoon the city board of education selected a commencement speaker, discussed finances, decided to purchase new machinery for the Harding High school vocational department and approved routine bills.

The speaker for Harding High school's 1937 commencement will be Rev. Donald H. Tippett of Bexley, O., widely known in Ohio as an inspirational talker. Supt. C. A. Hudson announced Rev. Tippett had accepted the board's invitation. Mr. Hudson in commenting on the choice said Rev. Tippett has "a message which the youngsters will take to." Rev. Tippett is pastor of the Bexley Methodist church.

Finances of the city schools will not permit continuation of a full year without issuing notes against the default of $48,660 by the state in its first quarterly payments under the 1937 school foundation program, the board decided. No definite date was set for issuing the notes.

Findlay Man Goes Blind Then Wins His Sight Back

By The Associated Press

FINDLAY, O., April 6 — Harry Clark, 23, jubilantly told today of his recovery from what had threatened to be a life of total blindness.

A welder, he worked without a visor to shield his eyes.

Then one morning he awoke. He could see nothing. Groping his way to another room he slumped in a chair.

"I can't see," Clark moaned. His sister, Mrs. Ethel Cotter, laughingly retorted, "what —? you're kidding."

"No, I'm blind," declared Clark.

A physician examined his eyes and prescribed three days of rest in a dark room. "I can promise nothing. The sight may be gone forever," the doctor said.

Clark began the treatment, impatiently determined to see his family, if only once again.

He stood the blackness a day, then put on a pair of dark glasses and began to grope his way, seeing only dark shadows. Light was mixed with terrifying black splotches.

A surprised physician made another examination, noting improvement.

The light returned. Images registered hazily, then sharply.

Today Clark was ready for work —relieved and happy.

MODERN ARMY MARKS WORLD WAR'S START

ades ago. Jeannette Rankin of Montana, the first congresswoman, said her "no" was drowned in the shout of opposition.

Rep. Knutson, Republican of Minnesota, one of the dissenters, said today a pattering rain that dawn sounded "as if the generations gone by were shedding tears over the tragedy we were enacting."

As the result of lessons learned in 1917 and the forward march of military science, officers said, the army now is a close-knit, highly mechanized force depending more on speed than on man-power.

In man-power, there is little difference between today's 170,000 officers and men and the 133,000 who were khaki in 1917.

Behind this force 20 years ago, however, there were only the 95,000 national guardsmen. Behind today's force are 190,000 guardsmen and 95,000 reserve officers—plus 150,000 enlisted reservists if present plans are approved. These could absorb indefinite numbers of untrained men.

Compared with the 55 obsolete "crates" of 1917, the army's wings are 1,100 fighting planes of the latest type. This number is being expanded gradually toward a goal twice as large.

Tank regiments, motorized machine gun companies and speedy supply trains are being formed. A chemical warfare service, unknown in 1917, is knitted into the army.

PATTERN 4022

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, April 7.

LIVELY AND interesting conditions are forecast from the reigning lunar and mutual aspects. This may be in connection with letters, writings, contracts or documents. Beware of intrigue. With good judgment there is prospect of sound investments, favorable finances and returns from industry and fidelity.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate an interesting and lively year, with success and good fortune dependent on their own discretion and vigilance as to petty intrigues, deceits and treacheries. The mind may be in a rather tricky frame, leading to unfavorable complications.

A child born on this day may be industrious and hard working in business, writing, publishing or kindred occupations. But its judgment may be a bit treacherous and involve it in intrigue, collusion or other menaces to an upright career. It will, however, be socially popular.

Mrs. George [illegible], district director, also will attend the meeting.

The business session was preceded by a luncheon. A contribution of $5 was made to the financial campaign for Boy and Girl Scout work. Mrs. A. Loeb, Mrs. Sol Freed and Mrs. Rae Engelhardt were named a nominating committee to report at the annual meeting May 3 when the Bucyrus members will be hostesses. Plans were completed for a benefit bridge Wednesday at Ringer's Inn, with Mrs. [illegible] and Mrs. Jane [illegible] as hostesses.

After the business session, Mrs. [illegible] gave a review of "[illegible] and [illegible]" by [illegible].

OLD [illegible] the Jolly [illegible] club entertained with a [illegible] dance at [illegible] hall. Twenty-five couples danced to a program played by Tommy [illegible] orchestra. The club will close its season May 8. Arrangements for the next dance are in charge of a committee composed of Mr. Howard Payne, Mrs. Walter [illegible] and Mrs. Ed Cronieman.

Mrs. W. E. Walker of Merchant avenue was hostess to the M. N. L. club last evening at her home. Cootie was played, honors going to Mrs. L. E. Moore and Mrs. Vincent Ruhl. Mrs. Edna Johnson received a guest award. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by her daughter, Glenna. Guests included Mrs. Johnson and Miss Doris Roberts. The club will meet in May at the home of Mrs. Elmer Ireland of Boone avenue.

Mrs. Fred K. Dix was hostess to the All Arts club of Prospect last evening at her home in Prospect. Favorite Bible verses were given in response to roll call. Mrs. Edward J. Lauer was in charge of a business session, and Mrs. Edwin D. Adams presided for the program. A paper, "The Dawn of the Industrial in Agriculture," prepared by Mrs. C. F. Swaney, was read by Mrs. William Herr, who also gave a group of readings including "When Angeline Johnson Comes A-Swingin' Down the Line," Duncan; "Home," Guest, and "The Riley [illegible]" by Fred K. Plans were made to cooperate with the new [illegible] which is being organized at Prospect at a meeting of the [illegible] Literary club of Prospect last evening. The members were guests of Mrs. Andrew Renninger at her home in Prospect. The program included a demonstration and talk on "Table Decorations and Menus" by Miss Evelyn [illegible], and a paper on "Diet and Budgets" by Mrs. James Laker. The club will meet in two weeks with Miss Esther Click.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd [illegible] of 337 Olney avenue entertained the following guests at their home Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Rider of Prospect, Misses Margaret Hassler, June Baker, Vivian [illegible] and Thelma Nickerson, George Eifritt, Delbert Griffith, Roy [illegible]man and Carl Rider.

Members of the Y. M. E. club and their husbands met for a 6 o'clock dinner Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Elrey on Essex court in honor of the silver wedding anniversary of the host and hostess. A buffet dinner was served from a table centered with a large vase filled with red roses and lighted with tapers. The club of which Mrs. Elrey is a member, presented her with a silver cream pitcher, sugar bowl and tray. Mrs. M. W. McKitrick of Plain City, mother of the hostess, was a guest. Mr. and Mrs. McKitrick will observe their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary within a week.

Mrs. Paul Webb of Washington, D. C., was a guest of the C. W. N. club when Mrs. Frederick G. Smith entertained last evening at her home on Forest street.

Miss Marcella McMahon and Miss Marguerite VanAtta won the awards for high scores in bridge and Miss Louise Adams won a floating award. A meeting will be held in two weeks with Miss VanAtta of Bellefontaine avenue.

BUCYRUS PREPARES FOR BAND PARADE

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, April 6—Efforts to return all alumni bandsmen of former Bucyrus High school bands to participate in the huge parade which will feature the band festival to be held in Bucyrus Friday and Saturday, May 7 and 8, are being made. Invitations to all former bandsmen have been sent by J. C. Hazen, band director.

Covers were placed for more than 50 members, patronesses and guests at long tables decorated with spring flowers and greenery and lighted with white tapers in [illegible] holders. Guest favors were [illegible] "Anne Hathaway" [illegible] by Mrs. Frank [illegible], [illegible] chairman. Decorations throughout the room were carried out in yellow, green and [illegible]. An effective [illegible] scene was carried out on the stage which was centered with a [illegible] of Anne Hathaway [illegible] and at the back was a panel bearing the word "Delphian."

Mrs. [illegible], president of the club, [illegible] program and introduced her associate officers: Mrs. John M. Quigley, vice president; Mrs. C. V. Hudson, recording secretary; Mrs. Leo [illegible], corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. C. Ulmer, treasurer, and Mrs. L. O. Magill, [illegible].

Mrs. Louis [illegible] presided as program chairman and told of the organization and activities of the club. It was announced that the club's contribution of $75 to the free dispensary at the City hospital is dedicated to the charter members. Charter members present were Mrs. [illegible], Mrs. W. A. Marble and Mrs. [illegible]. Mrs. R. G. Chaney also is a charter member. The money is to be used to purchase glasses for less fortunate children, the club specifies. The club was organized by the late Mrs. E. H. Bindley, a member of the club and an active worker in the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs. Honorary members are Mrs. W. M. Baumert of Mussels[?] Mont., and Mrs. George E. McCormick of California.

Mrs. Detwiler gave a toast to the past presidents and Mrs. Frank Jeffers to the new members. Mrs. Everett Grigsby, president of the County federation, gave a talk in which she congratulated the club on its activities in club and civic work. Music for the dinner was in charge of Mrs. C. F. Church.

A memorial service was in honor of the following deceased club members: Mrs. George W. Neeley, Mrs. Charles Ohls, Miss Ella Ewart, Mrs. Charles Stoll and Mrs. E. H. Bindley. Mrs. Carmen Shepherd read a poem and lighted the tapers on a stand holding a bouquet of white roses. Members of the club trio, Mrs. C. V. Hudson, Mrs. E. W. Warwick and Mrs. C. F. Church, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Grover C. Snyder, sang a number. Completing the musical program was a piano number, "Pierrette," by Chaminade, played by Mrs. Donald McQuate, and music by the club trio.

Mrs. Young gave an interesting talk on her visit to Stratford on Avon during the Shakespeare anniversary week, several years ago, and talked informally on the work and life of Shakespeare. Mrs. Young was introduced by Mrs. O. E. Hoofman.

Biography Review Read at Meeting of Literary Club

A REVIEW of the biography of Anne Sullivan Macy who was for 49 years the teacher and companion of Helen Keller, written by Nella Braddy, who is in private life Mrs. Keith Henney of Garden City, Long Island, N. Y., was given by the author's sister-in-law, Mrs. Wayne Jenkins, at the guest day party of LeMercure club last evening in the ballroom of Hotel Harding.

Mrs. Henney, an editorial assistant with the Doubleday-Doran publishing house, assisted Miss Keller in writing her book, "My Religion," and when Mrs. Macy decided to write the story of her life with Miss Keller, she asked Mrs. Henney to assist her. Mrs. Macy died last October. Both Mr. and Mrs. Henney are close personal friends of the world's most famous blind woman. Mr. Henney, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Henney of 351 Delaware avenue, is editor of "Electronics," a McGraw-Hill Co. publication. Mr. and Mrs. Henney were here at Christmas time for a short stay at the Henney home.

In speaking informally after the review Mrs. Jenkins said that last week Miss Keller and her companion, Miss Polly Thompson, left for Japan where Miss Keller will lecture and work in the interest of the blind. She probably will do similar work in China before returning to this country.

Mrs. R. H. Taylor, president of LeMercure club, welcomed the members and guests. Two piano duo groups, played by Mrs. Victor E. Dombaugh and Miss Wanda McMahan, were composed of "La Rosita" by DuPont, "Valse Caprice" by MacFayden, "Liebesfreud" and "Caprice Viennese," by Kreisler and "Country Gardens" by Granger.

Mrs. Everett B. Grigsby, president of the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs, spoke briefly on the annual fine arts day program on May 5.

Potted tulips and baskets of spring flowers decorated the ballroom and at the serving table presided over by Mrs. Grigsby and Mrs. Taylor there was a centerpiece of tulips and jonquils.

Guests were Mrs. R. R. Prichard, Mrs. Paul H. Schwemley, Mrs. A. C. Bachman, Mrs. Bird Jacoby, Mrs. Earl Kennedy, Mrs. Alice Bowers, Mrs. Victor H. Michel, Mrs. F. B. Cleland of Akron, Mrs. Ernestine Wiedemann, Mrs. D. J. Shelton, Mrs. J. M. Hamilton, Mrs. C. J. Altmaier, Mrs. William Busler, Mrs. Francis M. Eshelman of Cocoanut Grove, Fla., Mrs. R. B. McMahan, Mrs. Lester Wood of Richwood, Mrs. James C. Mann, Mrs. E. J. Hattendorf of Cleveland, Mrs. O. G. Briggs, Mrs. Grigsby, Mrs. Rex G. Kilbourn, Mrs. J. M. Kratzer, Mrs. A. W. Bacon, Mrs. L. D. France, Mrs. T. A. Medley of Campbell, Mrs. Mrs. Sidney Young, Mrs. W. H. Pohler, Mrs. Dombaugh, Mrs. Joseph Maxwell, Mrs. Charles Hughes, Mrs. Charles Schaad, Mrs. D. R. Felt, Mrs. Frederick Haberman Jr., Mrs. Alice Boyd, Mrs. Zelmah Howard, Miss Irenaea Kraus, Miss Margaret Gonthier, Miss Patsy K. Rauhauser, Miss Estella C. Smith, Miss Margery Eymon, Miss Louise Cunningham and Miss Jeanette Bowers.

The club will meet April 19 with Mrs. B. J. Cehrs of 655 Mt. Vernon avenue.

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Chief Reveals a Plot Against Philip Veritzen.

THE CAPTAIN of the yacht lost no time in obeying my father's summons to the cabin, and there was no time lost in enlightening him as to the reason.

"What do the deep-sea fishermen deem the most stupid of the fish, the one most easily hooked?" my father asked.

"The dogfish," the captain answered, and my father with a brief thanks dismissed him and turned to me jubilantly as soon as the door was closed.

"You needn't worry any longer," he said. "You had the right word. Just repeat the message again."

"Come immediately," I repeated. "Everything ready. Big dogfish swallowed bait."

My father's face was suddenly grave.

"This means we mustn't lose another second," he said and, with his hand under my elbow again, he hurried me out of the cabin and up on deck. But even before taking me to the sheltered place where he had established our party, he went to the rail and gave the officer the latitude and longitude which he had furnished to our own captain.

"Tell Adams not to lose another second getting to that vicinity, but he must not let them guess before the rest of you are here until I come and give you the word. When you get within visibility put out [illegible] lights. Tell them all that."

With Message Means

"I'll see to everything, sir," the commander promised, and my father took me back to the rest of our party.

"I suppose the code was put in the Lady Fair," Harry Underwood said, but my father's mood was no longer a jesting one.

"She solved it quickly and satisfactorily," he answered, and I was near enough to Lillian's big husband to hear him murmur "Ouch" under his breath. But he was careful to utter no syllable aloud.

"That code means this," my father said next. "Philip Veritzen is being fooled to the top of his bent. He has on board that yacht a huge sum of money. He has been withdrawing his own resources, and has, I guess, the aid of some of his gullible friends. He has been made to believe that he is a part of a great political coup which, when the rewards are distributed, will bring him additional wealth, fame and something more precious [illegible].

"In reality the people who are contacting him are planning to make a getaway with his money, and—the trail, Mary—perhaps with his son as well, for Noel is to be the one who is to deliver the money to the men in the boat from which this code message came."

He repeated the message, and paused for the fraction of a second.

Refers to Veritzen

"'Big dogfish' undoubtedly means in the vernacular, 'Big boob,'" he said, "which translated spells Philip Veritzen. And if it were only a question of money I never would risk a hair on any of your heads. I would let the 'big dogfish' stand his losses. But I know the type of men who are contacting him—a [illegible] [illegible].

"I do not dare run the risk of letting Noel remain in his power after the money is apparently delivered. I say 'apparently' with deliberation, for Noel, under my instructions, has substituted packages of paper with genuine bills at top and bottom and spurious ones between, for the fortune his foolish father has been saved from throwing away. But when the men who planned the coup realize they have been fooled, they will be savagely [illegible] in retaliation."

"Oh, oh, Noel!" Mary moaned softly.

"I know, Child," my father said gently. "Now I am very sure that everything is coming out as we have planned and that Noel will be back with you tonight safe and sound. But I thought you ought to know what his danger is. You are a woman now, his wife. You must face bravely what other women are often called upon to meet."

"I—I will be brave!" gasped Mary, and I knew that the rest of the others were as filled as I with love and compassion for the frightened young wife.

Election and Music Program Feature Meeting of Club

MISS MARY KATHRYN ALHEIT was chosen president when members of the Junior Lecture Recital club closed the season with a program, business and social meeting last evening at the home of Miss Donna Ruth Sinning of 641 Girard avenue. Elected with Miss Alheit were: Miss Kathleen Kerns, vice president; Miss Rosaline Manzo, secretary; Morris Kline, treasurer; Miss Jean Feaver, historian; Miss Sinning, publicity; Miss Edna Bargar, social chairman.

Miss Kathleen Kerns presided, and the program opened with the junior pledge given by the members. The program theme was "Creative Art and American Music," and the members responded to roll call with original presentations in keeping with the theme. Miss Evelyn McClelland was a guest pianist.

A vote of thanks was given Mrs. H. J. Mantz, club counselor, who also will serve in this capacity next year. Plans were made to contribute to the MacDowell fund and also to send greetings to Dr. Edgar Stillman Kelley, Ohio musician and composer, on his eightieth birthday anniversary.

The following program was given: "Jubal," Miss McClelland; voice number, "Were You There," Manney, by Miss Bonnie Wasserback; voice numbers, "Deep River," Burleigh, and "Ashes of Roses," Wood, by Miss Jane Harper; piano solo, "Chanson," Friml, Miss Sinning; voice numbers, "Sometimes When Silver Moonbeams Steal," Fox, and "Marigolds," Klemm, by Miss Edna Bargar. Accompaniments were played by Misses Jean Biggert and Kathleen Kerns.

During the creative art program Miss Kerns read an original poem, "To Schubert," and Miss Alheit played an original piano composition, "Une Theme et Les Variations."

Miss Alheit, a delegate to the state contest Saturday at Columbus, presented her report and announced that Central district was awarded a silver cup for having the largest number of contestants in the state contests. A poster made by Miss Alheit and Mrs. Mantz which received honorable mention in the state showing was displayed. The program closed with the study review on "American Music and Composers" and contests. Awards were won by Miss Manzo and Morris Kline.

Guests included Mrs. Eugene Moore and Miss Jean Biggert.

Finding Of "Lost" Scrapbook Recalls Prowess Of Marion Team 16 Years Ago

1921 Record Kept by "Billy" Fetter Found as Store Moves

Shows Marion Stars Went Through 1920 Without Defeat

DISCOVERY [illegible] week of a scrapbook which had been [illegible] the record of the [illegible] baseball team of 1921. The book was made by William "Billy" Fetter [illegible] for the Schaffner [illegible] the activities of the 1921 playing season.

[illegible] when the [illegible] Fetter Co. [illegible] moving from [illegible] East Center street where formerly the Marion Department Co. was in business. While working for the company and playing baseball with the Marion city team, Fetter made the scrapbook and stowed it away in the store for safe keeping.

[illegible]

Won 76 Games in 1921

May 5 [illegible] 1921 [illegible] By the time the season's games was completed the Marion Davey Stars had chalked up 76 victories against eight defeats.

Many of the members of that club are still located in and near Marion today; others have moved [illegible]

[illegible] Eleven [illegible] athletes took part in the [illegible] of them appearing in all, several games, others playing most of the [illegible] Bud Lawson [illegible] Emerson [illegible] John H. [illegible] Robbins and Wilbur Higgins, all now living in Marion and vicinity. George Hogan and [illegible] two members of the club are deceased.

F. E. Kreiner Manager

F. E. Kreiner, [illegible] of The Marion Star [illegible] was also business manager of the club. Kreiner later moved to Los Angeles, Calif. [illegible] manager [illegible] At the time the [illegible] book was made Fetter, who is a salesman with the Schaffner Furniture Co., he was employed by the Marion Department [illegible] located on East Center street.

The scrapbook was [illegible] on a shelf and came to light only last week. Fetter's rabid interest in the diamond game led him to collect the news stories of the team's exploits.

One clipping in the book testifies to his interest in the ball. It is a picture of Marion fans watching the Marion Star's [illegible] playing board in operation during the 1921 world series. The Marion Star office at that time was located on Center street a short distance from where Fetter was employed. Someone, apparently a co-worker of Fetter, has marked the spot where he is standing to [illegible] the baseball board and made a notation of "X—Billy when he should have been working."

Kenaston Loser in Grudge Match with Gil LaCrosse

Marion wrestling fans last night were ready to hand Gil LaCrosse of Boston a championship of some sort. Probably the most appropriate would have been a "meanest man" award his rough and tough victory over Sergeant Bob Kenaston in the final bout at the Shovel gymnasium indicated.

Buck Estes, Elk City, Okla., grappler probably too would deserve an award but not of the same type for his brilliant victory over Cecil McGill, the pride of Long Beach, Calif., in the other featured battle which was clean and free from rough tactics. Vic Jarboe, a newcomer from Evansville, Ind., and Billy Venable, the Texas bad man, met in the 20-minute preliminary. Jarboe took only a small dose of Venable's rough medicine before he began handing it back in like quantities and the bout went to a fast draw.

Every minute from the opening gong the Kenaston-LaCrosse melee was a tough scrap with the two hefties throwing everything at each other except the ring posts. Knowing what to expect, Kenaston didn't wait for a signal from LaCrosse to start the rough stuff but waded in with clenched hands at the sound of the bell.

Kenaston started out with the idea of making mince meat out of LaCrosse but the burly Bostonian had much the same idea and his love for raw meat was apparent as he molared his way out of the tough spots Kenaston [illegible] In the surprise and delight of fans didn't let anything prevent him from following the same line of battle. The sergeant finished the first fall at the end of 10 minutes with a double leg hold which forced LaCrosse to [illegible] groaning long enough to say "uncle."

The sergeant's bad right knee let him in for considerable trouble in the succeeding rounds and the pain it caused him as LaCrosse hammered it with his fist gave the Bostonian no end of happiness. LaCrosse won the second fall by battering Kenaston's sore knee until the latter was forced to give up. The second fall went 11 minutes.

Out fast at the start of the final round the Sergeant [illegible] his opponent in the [illegible] and then landed in rapid [illegible] a half dozen stiff right [illegible] Referee Pop [illegible] the dangling form of [illegible] it looked like Kenaston [illegible] when he put on an Indian death lock hold with his [illegible] got out and probably never [illegible] doesn't know how, but the [illegible] real action got under way.

Slams, smashing rights [illegible] dives through the [illegible] most everything that a scientific wrestler wouldn't do was in evidence as the boys [illegible] to mow each other down. After flipping Kenaston [illegible] LaCrosse [illegible] a head dive and when Kenaston [illegible] jumped in to finish the final fall in 12 minutes.

Cecil McGill pulled a new trick out of the bag last night in winning the initial fall over Buck Estes with what he [illegible] breaker. McGill actually secured the fall with both grapplers in a standing position by holding the back of Estes' head on his shoulder and arching his opponent's back until the Oklahoman was forced to concede.

Estes was bothered with a sore back when he returned for the second round but he evened the score in four minutes by winning with a pair of shoulder dives, a body slam and press. The last fall was also timed a four minutes with Estes winding it up with two full height slams, a chin punt followed with a slam and press.

NEW YORK, April 6—Pedro Montanez of Puerto Rico was the unofficial lightweight champion of the world today.

He earned this title, such as it is, by beating champion Lou Ambers of Herkimer, N. Y., in a 10-round non-title fight at Madison Square Garden last night and while from the start it was assured Ambers would save his crown it looked for a while as if he wouldn't have a head to put it on.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 6—Yale is counting on a back named Al Wilson from Sharpsburg, W. Va., as a running mate for all-American Clint Frank this fall. Coach Ducky Pond says Wilson is going to be another Red Cagle. Only reason you didn't hear more of him last season was because the turf in the Yale bowl wasn't suited to his peculiar close-to-the-ground style of running. This will be attended to pronto ... under the pretext that the bowl needs a general going over, the Elis will plough it up this summer and lay down a brand of sod that will be right down Wilson's alley.

Most promising pitcher on the Alabama baseball team this year is Hugh Bedient, Jr., son of the old Red Sox pitcher. ... Mike Jacobs says Braddock and Louis will be a sellout three weeks ahead of the fight. ... Pedro Montanez will use some of the dough he got last night to open a bar in Harlem.

Latest Kentucky Derby odds make Brooklyn, the E. R. Bradley colt, the favorite at 6 to 1. (This corner still likes Brooklyn's stable mate Billionaire) ... Cot getting the biggest play is Scene Shifter, trained by Earl Sande. Odds on him have been cut from 60 to 1 to 20 to 1.

Those who know say Gus Mancuso never has been given enough credit for the skillful way he handles the Giant pitchers.

WIDESPREAD PUBLIC APPROVAL

More than 1,500,000 women in all walks of life Cook Electrically. 218,000 switched to Electric Cooking in 1935; 315,000 in 1936. The sweep of Public approval gains momentum daily; and here are 6 Big Reasons Why!

1. CLEAN: Electric Cooking is Clean. There is no Combustion soot or grime. Utensils sparkle always Kitchens Stay Clean as any room.

2. SAVES TIME: Time-taking tasks— Watching Stirring, Testing, Basting and Utensil Scouring—are wholely eliminated or greatly reduced.

3. LOW COST: Electric Cooking bills are very little or no higher than those of other methods. And fewer Kitchen Cleaning bills, less Meat Shrinkage, "Steam" cooking destroys less Food Mineral, fewer Baking Failures, and Comfortable, Economical Canning, all bring substantial and new Economics to "home cooking."

4. SPEEDY: Electricity cooks as Fast or faster than other methods. Little or no Water is needed, and Surface Units conduct "measured" heat into utensils through the bottoms only. So Cooking begins sooner and proceeds as Fast as food will cook.

5. BETTER RESULTS: Measured heat in Draftless Ovens prevents "dried out" Baked foods, assures uniform oven performance, fewer failures. Fruits and Vegetables are Healthier Look and Taste Better "Steam" cooked in own juices or little water.

6. COOL: Ovens are insulated on 6 sides Only Excess moisture escapes. No oven watching All these make Electric ovens so Cool the tops are suitable Work surfaces while Baking, and Surface units conduct heat into bottoms only of utensils.

A True Story

An aged cabinet maker in a southern city was going blind—about to lose his home and his wife was an invalid.

The only thing between the couple and tragedy was a Stradivarius violin that he had brought to this country years ago.

An inexpensive Want Ad placed in a newspaper brought seven answers and the violin was sold for several thousand dollars.

Every one was happy forever after.

Little Want Ads have done so many BIG jobs.

LEGAL NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENTS

Wayne W. Miller and —— Miller, his wife, or widow, whose first name is unknown, and all possible heirs, devisees, legatees, next of kin, executors or administrators of the said Wayne W. Miller, and —— Miller, his wife, or widow, without specifically naming them, and whose place of residence is unknown, will take notice that on the 15th day of March, 1937, Henry H. O'Dowd, as Administrator of the estate of Albert Francis O'Dowd, deceased, instituted an action in the Probate Court of Marion County, Ohio, it being Case No. [illegible], against Alice Gree, widow, Charles W. O'Dowd and Tirzah O'Dowd, his wife, Wayne W. Miller and —— Miller, his wife, and others, praying for the sale of the following described real estate to pay debts:

Situated in the City of Marion, County of Marion and State of Ohio, being described as follows:

Being a one-half interest in the following described real estate:

Known as being part of Lots Numbers Eleven Hundred and Fifty-seven (1157) and Eleven Hundred and Fifty-eight (1158) in Wallace and Trues Fifth Addition (O. L. 412); Beginning at a point in the west side of Barnhart Street, ninety-six (96) feet north of the intersection of said west line of Barnhart Street and North line of North Street (now Wilson Street); thence with the west line of Barnhart Street, north [illegible] (50) feet; thence westward parallel with said North line of North Street (now Wilson Street) one hundred and fifty (150) feet; thence southward [illegible] (50) feet; thence eastward one hundred and fifty (150) feet to place of beginning.

Said premises being known as House No. [illegible] Barnhart Street, in the City of Marion, Ohio.

Said action will be for hearing on and after the 15th day of May, A. D. 1937.

You are hereby notified that you have been made a party defendant in said action, and you are required to answer the same on or before the 15th day of May, A. D. 1937, for the reason that you have some right, title and interest in and to the real estate herein described, which will be released and barred of record, if you fail to answer or demurrer to Plaintiff's Petition on or before the 15th day of May, 1937.

STOCKS RECEDE IN TIMID TRADE

Steels Lead Downturn but Chrysler and General Motors Hold Up.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 6—Steels tarred downward in today's stock market and, with exception of a handful of specialties, most of the leaders were on the losing side for fractions to a a point.

While selling pressure was lacking, buyers were more than ordinarily timid.

Chrysler and General Motors maintained their balance the greater part of the time as Wall Street looked for an early settlement of the former's labor controversy.

Another dip in U. S. government bonds was a restraining influence in the stock department. Despite assurances of support from the reserve authorities, federals retreated following Washington advices the treasury will have to borrow new money because of an upward revision of the budget.

Prominent on the quiet backslide were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Anaconda, Kennecott and General Electric.

In a restricted area, but generally lower, were Goodyear, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, and Western Union.

Talk recently of the federal reserve board lifting margin requirements tended to die down as the condition statement of weekly reporting member banks disclosed a drop in loans to brokers and dealers in New York City of $24,000,000.

In view of labor interruptions, first quarter earnings figures of of the principal motor manufacturers were being awaited with more interest than usual. Some of the smaller concerns, it was believed, may have done well.

Followers of the steels noted opinions of some observers in this field that, while the rate of mill operations may hold around its current high level during the present quarter, a material recession is likely during the summer.
